Mapping the rockfall source and deposit areas in the Alps

Creating a historical database of the Alpine rockfalls with Leica Geosystems GIS Collectors and Smart Antennas

Authors: Barbara Žabota & Gregor Bilban

Rockfalls are one of the major threats to the viability and liveability in the Alps. To recognise areas that are at high risk due to rockfalls, it is important to study historical events and develop spatial models that provide accurate mapping of rockfall deposit areas. To study the rockfall it is necessary to validate the results of modelling on the field – here is where Leica Zeno 20 GIS Collector and Leica GG04 Smart Antenna come in handy.

Project RockTheAlps (RTA) is an Interreg Alpine Space project which will reinforce and strengthen the implementation of rockfall risk prevention policy and mitigation strategy support in line with a sustainable forest management approach. To achieve this objective, the first harmonised rockfall natural risk and protection forest mapping for the entire Alps will be

Historical rockfall database in Alpine Space

Interreg Alpine Space project "RockTheAlps"

The map displays the Alpine Space region, which includes parts of France, Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Slovenia, and parts of Germany, Belgium, and the Czech Republic. Rockfall locations are marked with red dots (source areas) and green dots (deposit areas). A legend in the top left corner identifies these symbols. The map also shows major cities, rivers, and mountain ranges like the Alps and Carpathians.

About project RockTheAlps

The overall objective of the project RockTheAlps is to reinforce and strengthen the implementation of rockfall risk prevention policy and mitigation strategy support in line with a sustainable forest management approach. For achieving that objective, the first harmonized rockfall natural risk and protection forest mapping for the entire Alpine Space will be provided.

About RockTheAlps

This map represents the locations of rockfalls in the Alpine Space that were recorded as a part of an Interreg Alpine Space project called RockTheAlps. Rockfall locations are separated into two areas: rockfall source area (an actual detachment area of a rockfall) and rockfall deposit areas (rockfall deposits that belong to an individual rockfall source area). Besides the location of both areas, there are several other attributes available for each point. Database was created by using methodology that was developed by UL BF - Department of Forestry and Forest Renewable Resources and by using application Collector for ArcGIS.

Database is still updating and will continue during the duration of the project.
